sheet? i want to find a way to have a $ in a cell without saving the file. i have a dropdown list in excel that changes the content of the cell that i want to have the $ sign. I want to be able to replace the $ in the cell with the new value of my dropdown list. i cant seem to find any way to do this or at least i cant find a method to add a dollar sign into a cell without a cell save. A: If you need to perform dynamic calculations that modify the content of a cell, you may want to consider using an array formula and

TEXTJOIN. For example, say you have the following data in A2: Enter this formula in cell B2

=TEXTJOIN(", ", TRUE, IF(A2="$", {"$"})) and press Ctrl+Shift+Enter Select all the cells that you want to include in the result (A2:A4) and hit Enter In this example I selected the range A2:A4, but you could select any range you want. For more information on how this works, please read this article: Text formula: What does the $ symbol mean? contribution" towards the uniform electronic Know Your Customer (eKYC) process to make the exercise a national and not a state project, home minister Sushilkumar Shinde told TOI on Tuesday. "In a meeting with home secretaries of all the states today, I have also pointed out that if you want your own state to go ahead with the eKYC programme, then you have to make a meaningful contribution, which is not now possible," Shinde said. Home secretaries who attended the meeting said the Centre has not clarified on what time-frame it would ask states to conduct eKYC programme. The Centre has requested the states to conduct the exercise as early as possible. As per the April 15 deadline, Maharashtra and West Bengal have so far launched their own eKYC programmes. The deadline given for other states is October 15. "It is possible that we could ask for a three-month extension to the state government's deadline. But that depends on the state and also how 82157476af
